Politics, what a bore
 You all think you know the score
 You are all stupid, you make me sick
 The whole lot of you are bloody thick
 You tell of the good you are going to do
 And try to make us vote for you
 But really you are all the same
 You use the country for your mindless game
 But you'll retire in a few years time
 Sit on your backsides wine and dine
 You leave the country in a helpless state
 For some other to recreate
 But what about us, where do we stand?
 We're stuck in the middle of this helpless land
 We're the people that you call jobs
 One of three million who can't get jobs
 But is it wrong for us to hope?
 Or will life go on being one big joke

Julie Blythe

Once
 I loved you deeply enough to spend a Saturday afternoon when Chelsea were at home
 shopping in the Kings road with you
 I was irritated by the bustling fans because they reminded me there might have been somewhere else
 I would rather have been but I loved you deeply enough to suppress such blasphemy
 Yet it took less than a football season
 to realise that really
 I hated you almost as much as
 I HATE TOTTENHAM

COMBAT 84

Q. How long has the band been together now?

A. Since about October '81, we started getting it together properly but we had the name about six months before that.

Q. How did that name, Combat 84, come about?

A. I,(Chris,) thought of it. I was on tour with the Damned up in Scotland sitting thinking of names and images for a band. I took the 84 of 1984 for the end of the world. I thought Combat gear would look good so it just clicked 'Combat 84' and thats how it stuck.

Q. Why was the band formed?

A. I, (Chris again), met John who said he was a bass player and we started this group off. We went through about six or seven drummers eventually ending up with four blokes who wanted to make the same kind of music.

Q. What is the present line up?

A. Chris vocals, Jim guitar, Deptford John bass and John on drums.

Q. Now, did the band ever perform together?
A. About 1950, I think. We started getting it together, properly, but we had the name about six months before that.

Q. How did that name come about?

A. I think, (phonetic) the name of it. I was on tour with the band up in Colorado, and the thinking of names and things like that. I took the name of 1950 for the end of the world. I thought, "Come on, gear would look good as it just clicked, 'Come on, gear' and there it stuck."

Q. What is the present line up?

A. Chris vocals, the guitar, Bedford John bass and John on drums.

COMBAT 84

Q. Who writes the music and lyrics for your songs?

A. Chris, I've written most of the lyrics but Johns done a couple. He writes most of the music. If I have a tune in my head I'll sing it to Jim, and if it fits the lyrics when he plays it we just keep it like that.

The music always matches the lyrics. If the lyrics are aggressive so is the music.

Q. What sort of topics do you sing about?

A. We sing about all sorts of things, trouble in this country, Ireland, trouble at gigs, people who want to fight all the time, poseurs, New Romantics and people who have been in nick.

Q. Are the things you write and sing about always drawn from personal experience?

A. We try to make it so cos people can identify with it more.

Q. Do you ever do your own versions of anyone else's songs?

A. No we leave that well alone.

Q. How do you go about getting your gigs and who organises that side of things for you?

A. It's very difficult, it's mainly me (Chris), through people I know. Alot of people don't want to put on Skin bands because of trouble. It's personal contact more than going through promotion agencies.

Q. What sort of following would you say you've got?

A. Mainly Skinheads but we'd like more punks to come to our gigs.

Q. Is you music only for Skinheads or for punks as well?

A. It's for punks as well, it's just music for musics sake. It's definitely not solely Skinhead music as its got punk overtones.

Q. What do you think of the kinds who come to see you?

A. We think they're great, anybody who pays to come and see us we love 'em. They're good geezers, it wouldn't be worth us being a band without them. They are as much a part of it as we are 'cos we'd have nobody to play to if they didn't turn up.

Q. And what about the music and lyrics for your songs?

A. I think I've written most of the lyrics but John...
I don't know. I've written most of the music. I...
I have a tape in my head I'll sing it to him, and he...
I'll sing it to him. I'll sing it to him. I'll sing it to him.

- Q. In what ways would you say you are different to other bands around?
- A. Our following can relate more to us 'cos we're their mates. Most people who have heard of us heard it on the streets and if you hear about something on the streets it must be worth coming to see.

- Q. What plans do you have recordwise?
- A. We hope to have a four track E.P. called 'Orders of the day' out sometime before Christmas on Victory records.
- Q. Finally, What ambitions have the group got?
- A. Chris wants to be a male model and we'd like to appear on 'Razzmatazz' and 'Cheggers plays Pop'. Seriously we'd like to get a couple of singles out and may be an album. We'd like to play gigs whenever we want, continue to play the small venues. We don't wanna sign autographs going down the street, thats disgusting, we'd rather keep our friends than become famous.

Q. In what ways would you say you are different to other people around?

A. Our fellowmen remain more to us than we're their master. Most people who have heard of us heard it on the streets and they hear about us talking on the streets
it must be worth coming to see.

Q. What plans do you have recorded?

A. We hope to have a four track E.P. called
'Order of the Day' out sometime before Christmas or January records.

Q. Finally, what ambitions have the group got?

A. We want to be a male model and we'd like to appear on television and 'Cherry's Play Pop'.
We'd like to be a couple of singles and we'd like to play live whenever we want, continue to play the small venues. We don't want any more going down the street, that's disgusting, we'd rather keep our friends than become famous.

BOOTBOYS

He was a 'Boot boy'. 'Boot boys' a more virulent development of skinheadism. It gave him a horse-laugh to read in certain newspapers how the Skin heads had packed away their boots and taken up with girls instead of bovver. Some of them had admittedly. Only some though. The others had got smart and broken with uniformed gear which was easily recognised by the Fuzz.

Ph: Peter Anderson

Anyone who believed that Boot Boys were a figment of a journalists imagination had only to enter an underpass anywhere in the London area and find letters scrawled on the walls reading: MILLWALL BOOT BOYS or Q.P.R. BOOT BOYS etc.

One law for them?

The Scene: Southend seafront on August Bank Holiday

Four Skins are relaxing on deckchairs taking in the sun and the passing birds. I'm sitting a few seats away and we're all minding our own business. Before long two members of the local constabulary stroll by, "If you hav'nt got tickets for those chairs, get off 'em!" barks one of the coppers at the shaven ones. Without a word they get up and sit on a nearby wall. As they pass me I enquire whether tickets are necessary for the chairs. "No, it's alright" the copper replies with a grin.....

PROUD TO BE A SKINHEAD?

"A couple of us were skinheads for quite a while, because we liked the whole style of it and some of us had been skins the first time round. The funny thing is that we never really planned it. One of my mates had to have his head shaved because of a nasty cut he got after a fight in the Hampstead Classic Cinema. So he was the first. Then one night Lee Thompson said that he'd pay for anyone who dared to have a crop and that was that!

After that we did get quite heavily into skinhead culture and music, the boots and braces. I loved all that. We used to collect all the records. We were into collecting old stuff, Motown, reggae and R & B. It was all stuff that people weren't really into at the time because there were hardly any other Skins then".

SKINHEADS

BY JAN HODENFIELD

LONDON — On the down escalator in a London Underground station. Boredom under midnight's neon light. Catch up on the brassiere and girdle ads. Directly across, on the up escalator, young kids. Laughing. Meanly. There's something strange about them. What? Start to stare. Rosy cheeks. Sheepskin jackets. Short hair. Very short hair.

Assah. Skinheads.

Look away. Look straight ahead. The junior boogey-men.

At the bottom of the escalator, catch a breath, realize a wrong turn was taken back in the complexity of the station, turn towards the up escalator. It's no longer working. Less than a minute before the skinheads were being carried up on it.

They even look mean. Their name was bestowed because of their short hair. Convict-short. Nothing softening around the face. Sheepskin jackets, union tee shirts and button down shirts without ties, always under snap-on suspenders, which hold up blue jeans or Sta-Prest trousers, hitched up high to expose the boots. Heavy boots. Mountaineering boots. Construction boots. With steel toes. The Police have now classified the steel caps as offensive weapons when they are spotted on short-haired kids. They were so handy for kicking in heads.

And these kids, the skinheads, just sort of . . . appeared. At football games in the beginning. Getting in punch-ups, destroying property. They just sort of appeared . . . out of nowhere. Younger brothers and cousins of the mods from the mid-Sixties . . . maybe . . . sons of the Teddy Boys from the middle Fifties . . . perhaps.

Look at that girl, isn't she great?
 A certain kind of beauty
 With the look of hate
 Oi T-Shirt and close cropped hair
 A bit of a lad in what she wears
 O more the sweet little girl next door
 He wants excitement and a whole lot more
 O more does she play in the park
 Well at least not till after dark
 He's in with the lads
 On with the crew
 If you're not a Skin it's them or you
 O be a young lady aint what she needs
 Being a Skin is the life she needs
 Just gathers on the skirts her mother bought
 Now she gets her threads from the last Resort
 He's looking smart and sly like a little fox
 Dressed in skinwear and ankle Doc's
 O what's the attraction, what's the thrill
